A Bloody Offering on the Altar of Ambition and Love

George Washington Eureka Dorsey Already Fattened For the Killing. Burns' Blister a Source of Secret Anguish, Though He "Smuee" in Company.

FREMONT, July 14, 1882.

To the Editor of the See. To a stranger unaccustomed to the ways of the modern political officeseeker of this young state, he would see but little in the actions of our local political aspirants to lead him to think that any very great interest was being taken in the coming fall's campaign. But to the "old settler" who has for years watched the sccret manoeuvres of these hungry individuals and seen the will of the people thwarted by the jobs put up at prima- $10 ries, can read only too plainly the meaning of this button-holing that is going on in our streets every day.

Fremont is crowded with men who are perfectly willing to sacrifice themselves to the people of this state in the way of being elected to some fat office. And while the disposition on the part of these martyrs does not reach to that dizzy heighth of a 'bloody sacrifice" it does reach to that other extreme of a degrading Shylock-

Dorsey undoubtedly feels that he is to be the greatest marryr, and in studying his manly intelligent countenance one cannot help feeling that to sacrifice this noble Second ward politician would be a crime second to none in the history of the world. I might truthfully say that there seems to be a general feeling of this kind among our citizens, and the chances are that Brother Dorsey will be preserved for some future occasion Notwithstanding these never-failing signs, Brother Doresy is determined to show his hand and place himself rightly before the people. To do right is his highest ambition, and on this principle he has gained some notoriety. He feels very strong and exceedingly large, and, no doubt, feels that his clothes are too small for him. His coat sleeves and pantaloon legs feel too short for him, and he is continually pulling down his vest. Now these things, which seem so matter-offact to him, are not noticed by the people. In fact, about the only change that can be seen in Brother Dorsey is that his hat is getting too small for him. At the same time it is quite possible that his heart is also

It would probably be not out of place to say that for the last two weeks he has manifested an unbounded love for some of our democratic friends. This can be accounted for however, upon the grounds that he is a native of Virginia, that good old democratic commonwealth. And of course it cannot be expected that the love which Bro. Dorsey unquestionably had for his native state and her people, has oozed out at his finger ends in so short a time. No sir! the blue blood of Virginia still courses through his veins. And what matters it though this love is only manifested just before the state convention it is none the less sincere.

Our able senator, who presides over the destiny of the New York hotel, is the next man ready to sacrifice himself. This monument of intelligence is mostly noted for the manner in ning side. This cannot be attributed to luck or chance. No, no! He is undoubtedly controlled by a clear head and sound judgment, and for all practical purposes it does not matter whose head and whose judgment is the power behind the throne. As the representative of the people, our senator has made a decided hit. Elected by the people, and pledged to do work for the people, his record is above re-proach. When a vote was to be taken upon a bill introduced in the interest of the people, where was our giant statesman? Echo answers, where? The senate proceedings read abseut, and a horney handed rooster remarked the other day he was probably attending a woman's suffrage meeting. Of course this remark was entirely uncalled for, and I resented it with all my energy. Most certainly his sena-torial record is good. And when he comes before the people, humbly and prayerfully asking them to let him handle their money, (of which they have plenty, thanks to his vote on bill No.52) they will, without a question of doubt, remember him. But then should he and Brother Dorsey fail through the treachery of their con-stituents, there will be this consolation left them, they can club together and write a history. Jeff Davis did this, you know, and I see no reason why they should not follow his excel-
